

Understanding your operational capacities can help you set goals that will help you develop a more balanced, healthy organization and increase your ability to make an external impact.

STEP 1: PREPARE FOR THE ASSESSMENT

Set up the assessment in either a web-based or paper-based version to allow for anonymity. You can customize some of the questions or create new ones.

STEP 2: TAKE THE ASSESSMENT INDEPENDENTLY

Take the assessment yourself. This will help you identify who else would be good to ask.

STEP 3: GATHER KEY FOLKS

Identify 10-20 individuals who work with the organization as administrative or artistic staff (employees or contractors), board members, or volunteers. Send an initial email request to the people on your list. Be sure to communicate a deadline for completion.

STEP 4: COLLECT ASSESSMENTS

Compile responses submitted by your staff, board, and volunteers. Create a report showing average scores for each question, as well as average scores for each whole section.

STEP 5: REVIEW RESULTS AS A TEAM

Hold a meeting with your planning team to review and interpret the results and identify further questions or goals for your work. See separate downloadable meeting agenda for conversation guide.

We have a financial plan that forecasts financial requirements at least 2-3 years into the future. Realistic yet demanding targets exist for resources tied to organizational strategic goals.
We have an annual budget in place that reflects the organization's strategic and operating goals. The budget is reviewed and approved by the board in advance at the beginning of each fiscal year.
We are funded through a diverse mix of contributed income (public, foundation, corporate, and individual) and earned income.
Our challenging yet achievable annual fundraising goals are set & reviewed at the end of each fiscal year.
Our realistic plans are developed regarding potential staffing needs, tied to strategic planning, including planning for succession or transitions of staff.
All staff receive training or professional development to stay up-to-date and expand their capabilities.
Staff members have annual work plans with clear and challenging goals, linked to the organization's strategic goals. Staff members are evaluated in writing regularly against goals agreed upon in their work plan.
Someone is responsible for human resource management, including legal obligations and appropriate compensation of all personnel.
We have a written communications strategy and plan with key messages, target audiences, and approaches to delivery.

Physical space is adequate for the current needs of our organization. Infrastructure is maintained and does not limit effectiveness.
We recruit and manages volunteers systematically and assigns responsibility to specific people to manage and provide volunteers with meaningful work.
Software and reporting systems are utilized to track financial information, program outcomes, clients, and volunteers. Systems are up-to-date.
Funds are set aside for facility maintenance and technology upgrades; routine maintenance and technology upgrades are a part of organizational culture.
Artist fees, salaries, and benefits are at a level appropriate for your industry and they communicate respect for artistic expertise and encourage allegiance.
